The volume of money in circulation was never so great per capita as it is today. We declare our steadfast opposition to the free and unlimited coinage of silver."

The trust question is referred to as "We recognize the necessity and pro-priety of the honest co-operation of cap-ital to meet new business conditions and especially to extend our rapidity in-creasing foreign trade, but we condemn all conspiracies and combinations in-tended to restrict business to create monopolies, to limit production or to costrol prices and favor such legislation as will effectually restrain and prevent all such abuses, protect and promote competition and secure the rights of production, laborers and all who are en-gaged in industry and commerce."

The tariff utterance is found in the following:

SEYMOUR'S MARCH. London, June 20.—A news agency dispatch from Shanghai, dated June 20,

"After an arduous march and frequent fighting with the Chinese, Vice Admiral Seymour arrived at Pekin Sunday afternoon. On five occasions the Chinese attacked the column in great force. There were many mounted men among the Chinese, but most of the natives were badly armed. At times they fought with admirable courage and bravery. The losses of the Chinese during the march are estimated at 500 killed. The losses of the foreigners were trifling.

"The exact state of affairs inside Pekin it is impossible to describe in view of the many conflicting reports, nothing has been received from the legations or foreigners there. "Surprise is expressed at the fact that a large force of Indian troops has not been ordered here."

Convention Hall, Philadelphia, June 2L.—Mr. Yerkes of Kentucky in seconding the nomination of President McKinley said:

Mr. Chairman and Fellow Delegates: The supreme thought in my mind at this moment is what remains to be said that ought to be said; and that in time of danger one's thought naturally turns to his hown. I recall that in the historic Philadelphia convention of 1856 liberty-loving men from my state sat as delegates in that body. In contrast with this immense audience this huge hall with its splendor of decoration and its superb equipment, that gathering would seem to be of small import but in devotion to freedom, intensity and in force of utterance in eternal results that hody adjourned Kentucky for the first time gave her electoral voite to a Fe-publican presidential candidate, Majowind McKinley (applause). promise of better days, of trying to teach the people to trust and rely in our plans and purposes. Now, it will be a campaign in which we will show what has been accomplished, prophesies fulfilled and pleges redeemed, it will be a representation of actualities of acts. You will have a rapid protrature, you will have a shifting penoranua for the present as compared with the past and whether this comparison be made by the speaker on the hustings, by the public press, in the marvelous lines of modern progress, it will present an argument so forcible that the minds of the people can not escape it. If there be people can not escape it. In 1896 we gave you an old representative slave-holding state. By so doing, we removed one charge against our party, that it was sectional. The Ohio river was crossed; Republicanism marched southward and this sectional line disappeared from the map. We will do it again. (Applause). We will still show the recouls in the north, in the south and again. (Applause). We will still show the people in the north, in the south and the east that Republicanism—to use the language of our distinguished chairman—means action and is always moving forward.
